POWERLIFTING RULES

I. Each contestant will be given three trials at each of the following lifts:

1. Bench press: Weight lowered to chest (must touch) and pushed back until arms are straight and elbows locked. Buttocks and back must not lift from the bench.

2. Squat: Take weight from rack. In order for an attempt to be judged as legal, the lifter must squat down until the tops of the thigh are below parallel with the floor or the point of the hips is below the point of the knee.

3. Dead lift: Pick weight up from the floor until hands are across the thighs. Any grip will be permissible. Weight may touch thighs on the way up. A completion - legs must be straight (knees locked), and the shoulders pulled back.

II. For the second attempt of a lift a lifter may not select poundage which is less than the amount used in one of his previous trials.

III. The winner for each weight class will be the contestant with the highest total poundage for the three lifts (sum of the best lift for each event):
